

California 2018
Analysis of the Republican Congressional Races

California Primary 2018 Analysis of the Republican Congressional Races

Introduction

This is the third analysis of our recent California reports: 1. November 15, 2017 - California 2018 Gubernatorial Primary Analysis, and 2. January 19, 2018 - California 2018 Gubernatorial Primary Analysis of the Hispanic Electorate. This report looks at voter performance in the Republican congressional races.

California will hold its gubernatorial statewide election, in June 5, 2018, where congressional candidates will compete to be one of the top-two nominee's, in each district, to advance onto the general election.

This analysis will show a comparison of current partisan voter registration (2018) by demographic groups and similarly do a comparison of the projected current voter turnout projection based on past historical voting results of previous election returns. California has an open top-two winner primary system; where the two top vote getters, regardless of party continue to the general election, and voters get to vote for any of the candidates regardless of party affiliation. This report will focus on the 15 congressional districts held by Republican incumbents.

Currently California has 53 congressional districts; 15 are held by Republicans, and 39 are held by Democrats.

California Congressional Primary Analysis of the Electorate Part 3

Index

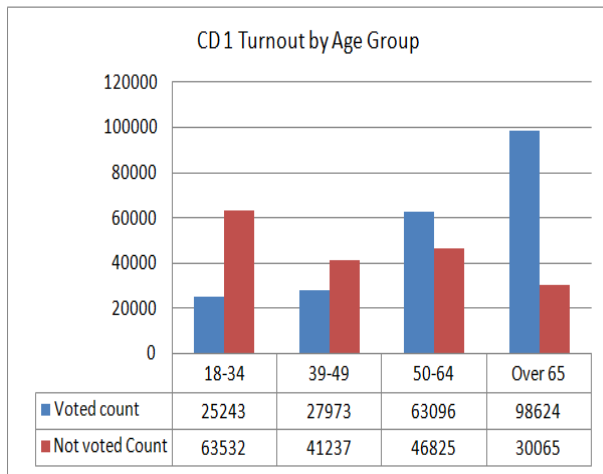

The congressional districts are indexed by number and incumbent in each district. The analysis provides a demographic profile that includes the voter's gender, political party, year voter registered to vote, voting method, age group, and Hispanic voters in district. To identify the Hispanic voters, the U.S. Census Bureau list of Hispanic names.
